DOLLIE QUINN GETS A SIX-MONTHS TERM IN THE COUNTY JAIL

Found Guilty by Jury in Circuit Court of Driving Her Automobile While Intoxicated

PLEA OF HER ATTORNEY MOVES DOLLIE TO TEARS

Old Case is Speedily Ended by Jury Wednesday

DOLLIE QUINN, also known as Sophia Nelson, was found guilty by a jury in circuit court of driving an automobile while intoxicated and was sentenced to six months in the county jail by Judge Higbee late Wednesday.

When Oscar Swennes, city attorney, who prosecuted the case, began his argument before the jury, Dollie started to weep. She wept still more when her attorney, Albert C. Wolfe, made an impassioned plea for liberty for his client and the tears reached a tumultuous torrent by the time Judge Higbee got down to summing up the case for the jury. The jury was twenty minutes making up its collective mind on a verdict. The trial was delayed forty minutes at the opening because Dollie was not in court when her case was called. Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Swennes proceeded with the selection of the jury and then the long wait ensued while the sheriff and police organized a general hunt for the defendant. She was found in her home and summoned forthwith to court.

Policeman Luech testified that about 11 p. m. on May 28 he found Dollie Quinn vainly trying to get her car out of a sand bed in the rear of the Stuber home on State street east of the Green Bay tracks. The car had been driven off State street, through the Stuber yard and into the sand. The car was headed south and Luech declared that Dollie Quinn told him she was taking a short cut to the north side. She had the appearance of being under the influence of liquor, Luech told the court.

Dollie's defense was that she and a party of friends, including her sister, had gone out for a ride that night, had been drinking and had been driving to State street and turning there for a time and finally heading north. She denied that she was driving the car when they left State road, that it was driven by a traveling man, a Joe Brown, who was drinking with her. She said she was driving the car into the sand and she was only trying to get it out when the policeman showed up and arrested her.

SHERIFFS ELECTED FOR SECOND TERM CAN'T HOLD OFFICE

Officers in Marinette and Washburn Counties Lose Bet on Passage of Amendment

MARINETTE, Wis.—Marinette county may be without a sheriff unless a special election is called. The present official, John Doberstein, although re-elected, will not be eligible to hold office because of the failure of the passage of the amendment in the past election to allow sheriffs to succeed themselves. Doberstein ran for re-election in hopes that the amendment would be carried. The county board has decided that no special election will be held until the official state canvass on the amendment is known.

BIRCHWOOD, Mich. — Because the amendment granting sheriffs in Wisconsin the authority to succeed themselves was defeated at the general election, James A. Johnson, sheriff of Washburn county and who won the office again, will be unable to continue the second term.

NINE WOMEN FREED FROM CHARGES OF PICKETING EMBASSY

Mrs. MacSwiney to Take Rest Before Continuing Speaking Tour for Irish Cause

WASHINGTON.—Released from charges brought against herself and eight other women for picketing the British embassy here, Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of Terence MacSwiney, the late lord mayor of Cork who died in prison on a hunger strike in 1920, was planning today to take a brief rest in Virginia before resuming her speaking tour in this country, on behalf of the Irish republican movement.

Pleading not guilty to charges of violating a federal statute designed to protect foreign representatives in this country from assault or violence, Mrs. MacSwiney and the others received a dismissal of their cases after a brief hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner MacDonell, who held that the proof did not measure up to the intent of the law.

PLAN FOR PACKING MERGER PUT UP TO U. S. BY ARMOUR

Chicago Packer Seeks Government Approval of Proposal to Take Over Another Plant

DETAILS OF PLAN WITHHELD BY BOTH PARTIES TO CONFERENCE

Head of Morris Firm Denies His Company is Involved

WASHINGTON.—J. Ogden Armour, head of Armour & Company, remained in Washington Thursday presumably for further conferences concerning a proposal for merging his own company with that of another of the "Big Five" Chicago meat packers. Mr. Armour's proposal was laid before Attorney General Daugherty and Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, Wednesday for the purpose of obtaining government approval, it was assumed.

All details of the plan were withheld except those made known by Secretary Wallace, who, in a formal statement regarding Mr. Armour's visit to the department, said that the merger contemplated purchase of the physical assets of another packing plant. The secretary said he had expressed no opinion, but "will, of course, give it fullest consideration."

Unofficial advice reaching government circles mentioned as possible a merger with either Wilson and Company, or Morris and Company. In the case of the latter concern, however, a statement by Edward Morris, its president, in Chicago, indicated that the company was not participating in the conferences here. Several associates of Mr. Armour were with him when he visited the two government departments but all declined to talk.

The merger proposal put forward by Mr. Armour recalled somewhat similar proposals laid before the government departments recently by the heads of the independent steel corporations. Mr. Wallace's statement indicated, however, that because of special legislation, namely, the packer control act which is administered by the department of agriculture, the packing industry stood in a different position.

Excessive issuance of prescriptions for drugs and alcoholic beverages were charged. The men were released on bonds.

RESIDENCE HERE IS BURGLARIZED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Home of M. O. Hammer Ransacked and Suit of Clothes is Stolen

RESIDENCE IS ENTERED BETWEEN 6 AND 9 O'CLOCK

Jewelry, First Thought Missing, is Located

THE residence of M. O. Hammer, 208 South Twenty-third street, was entered and completely ransacked by burglars between the hours of 6 and 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Thorough investigation Thursday revealed that a suit of clothes was the loot obtained by the prowlers.

In his statement to a Tribune reporter Thursday, Hammer said he left the house about 6 o'clock to accompany his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. F. Stuber, to a railroad depot to catch a train for Alma, Wis., home of the latter. Before returning to his home, Hammer said he attended a picture show, arriving at the house about 9:30 to find both the front and rear doors unlocked, and the house completely ransacked. The rear door had been left wide open, while the front entrance was closed.

In looking over the household effects and clothing, Hammer found a suit of clothes missing. A gold bracelet, engraved wrist watch, silverware and other valuables were passed up, indicating that the parties were after wearing apparel. It was first thought that two rings had been stolen, but later, after communication with his wife, Hammer found that the articles had been taken with her.

Hammer believed that the parties entered through the front door and escaped out the back. He told of seeing an individual prowling about the back yard after dark about three weeks ago, stating that some one dashed out of the yard when he went out after a pair of coal.

Police are investigating the theft.

The dry squad is now scouring the vicinity of Crandon, where a large haul was made by the forces recently in an effort to put a stop to the alleged wholesale illicit liquor production there.

CONSERVATIVES ASSURED OF MAJORITY IN BRITAIN'S NEW HOUSE OF COMMONS

Government Has Lead of Twelve in Returns from 545 of 615 Divisions in the Country; Gains Made by Labor Feature Election; Two Women Members Re-elected

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Prime Minister Bonar Law had secured a majority of twelve over all the other parties in the new house of commons when the returns from 545 of the 615 divisions had been received late this afternoon. There are three non-voting members, including the speaker, thereby making the number necessary for bare majority 307. The conservatives up to late this afternoon had captured 319 seats. This did not mean, however, that the premier already had obtained a so-called working majority as the support of some of the conservatives will be limited on many questions, but the conservatives are looking to the remaining seventy seats to swell their numbers and increase their lead over the combined opposition.

Thus far three members of Mr. Bonar Law's government have been defeated—Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, minister of health, W. A. Watson, lord advocate and Lieut.-Col. George F. Stanley, under-secretary of the home office.

The chief unionist whip, Lieut.-Col. Leslie Wilson, is also among the losers. In the case of Lieut.-Col. Wilson, it is announced that he will retain his office and another seat be found for him and it is assumed the same will be true of the others.

SUPERVISORS VISIT COUNTY ASYLUM AND INSPECT HIGHWAYS

County Board Makes Annual Inspection of West Salem Institution Thursday

The county board is making its annual inspection of the county asylum at West Salem Thursday. The supervisors left the court house at 11 o'clock and drove over the South Salem road, inspecting the new highway work that has been in progress this summer and fall.

After an inspection of the asylum, the board members were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gullickson at dinner at the asylum. In the afternoon the supervisors returned to the city by way of Mindoro and Holmen, looking over road work enroute.

An audit of the county's books was recommended in a resolution presented to the county board of supervisors in session at the court house Wednesday afternoon. An amendment to the resolution authorized the county finance committee to investigate the matter and find out what such an audit would cost the county.

The buildings and grounds committee in a report to the board recommended the sale of the lot across the street on North Third street owned by the county. The sum considered appropriate for the lot was fixed at $7,000. A motion, introduced by Orrin Fletcher authorizing the building and grounds committee to negotiate for the sale of the lot was carried.

A report of the committee on assessments was laid over until Wednesday afternoon, November 22.

Miss Lily M. E. Borresen, superintendent of the county traveling library association, read the report of the association for the year ending November 1, 1922. The report, as far as the appropriations for the coming year were concerned, was turned over to the finance committee.

STATE ATTORNEYS TO QUESTION TITLE OF MICHIGAN "EARL"

Greig, on Trial for Larceny, Turned Over to Prosecution for Cross-examination

CHARLEVOIX, Mich.—Direct testimony of A. J. W. Greig, charged with larceny by embezzlement, was concluded Wednesday and Thursday, the third day on the stand, the self-styled "Earl of Dunblane" will be turned over to state attorneys for cross-examination that is expected to bear on his claim to the English title as well as his operations as a securities salesman.

Greig told the jury he had disposed of the $90,000 he is alleged to have collected from Northern Michigan customers, in accordance with his contract with the defunct Title Guaranty and Casualty company.

Bonds purchased by Mrs. Mary Miller, complaining witness, who said her securities never were delivered, were sent to the Detroit offices of his firm, the defendant said. He could not otherwise account for them.

Bonar Law Vote Cut

The majorities by which the conservatives were returned at the last elections are much reduced where they were re-elected, the case of Premier Bonar Law being typical. The premier was returned over the laborite candidate in the central division of Glasgow by a margin of only 2,514, whereas in the previous election his majority was 12,915.

Viscountess Astor was returned to parliament but her victory was won by a closer margin than when she was first elected to represent the Sutton division of Plymouth. Lady Astor lost many votes through the conservative split, but made compensating gains from the laborites and liberals.

On the whole the election was remarkable for its good humor. The old-time bitterness and flouting of personalities were almost absent. Party colors were worn very little, but in one district a party went to the length of coloring two miles of streets blue—indicating to the electors their "path of duty."

Stories of babes and sucklings who accidentally were enrolled on the registers and who were taken to the polls to exercise their franchise, multiply, while never before was there such a crop of centenarians as tottered to the booths Wednesday.

Returns at one o'clock showed the standing of the parties in the new parliament with approximately half of the membership accounted for, but

OBJECT TO PLAN OF FIXING RATE FOR ELECTRICITY

Supreme Court's Ruling Not Regarded Favorably by Utility Commissioners

DETROIT.—Strong opposition to the principle laid down recently by the Supreme Court of Wisconsin that communities adjacent to a source of power are entitled to lower utility rates than those at a distance, was voiced at the convention of the National Association of Public Utility Commissioners in session here by its committee on utility rates of which Lewis E. Gertie of the Wisconsin Railroad Commission is chairman.

The committee asserts that if cities near a source of power are given this advantage such system of city utility rate making would discriminate against many other communities, would retard development of water power resources, would give such cities an unfair commercial advantage over other cities in their efforts to obtain factories and would tend to make rates too high in cities farther removed from power sources.

It was also asserted that communities would not be able to administer such a law properly.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court has recently held in a case of this kind that communities adjacent to a source of power are entitled to more favorable rates than those at a distance," said Chairman Gertie, speaking for the Committee. "While the decision of the Court does not so state, it seems to be a fair inference that this means that the cost of getting the energy to outlying communities must be assigned in its entirety to those places. It overlooks the fact that if this means that the rate is unreasonably high in those communities, and that must be judged not only by the cost of serving them from the hydro electric plant, but by the value of the service to the localities, the market will be restricted and cities close to the sources of power will have to carry more of the cost."

"This committee takes the position that proximity of a city or village to a water power development should not give it a priority of interest in that development. The present day electrical business is a business of transmission, well as of local distribution and the benefit of water power development should be made available within economical transmission distances to all parties who can be served. This means that the local community cannot be the unit for the assignment of costs upon which rates are based and we submit that there is no logical reason why a city or village should be the unit in preference to an entire section of the state or of the country."

MRS. C. C. FOWLER, LONG A RESIDENT OF SPARTA, IS DEAD

SPARTA, Wis.—Mrs. Charles C. Fowler, one of the old residents of this community, died at her home on East Montgomery street, Monday noon, Nov. 13, at 12:30 o'clock.

She had been in failing health for the past year, but had been able to be up and around her home, until ten days ago, when a change for the worse came, and she could not rally.

Mrs. Fowler was formerly Miss Lorraine Newton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Newton of Georgia, Vermont. She was born at that place, Jan. 4, 1845. The father died in Vermont, and the mother brought her family of three boys and five girls to Wisconsin, locating in Sparta.

Mrs. Fowler was then fifteen years of age. She grew to young womanhood here and united in marriage with Charles C. Fowler, 1868. To them, one daughter was born, Miss Clara Fowler of this city.

For many years, the family resided in Farmers' Valley, and twenty-one years ago, they moved to this city, where they have since resided.

Mr. Fowler died six years ago, and since that time Mrs. Fowler and her daughter have lived alone. Of her own immediate family, she was the last surviving member.

Funeral services were held from the home, Wednesday afternoon at two thirty o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. E. Harb. The bearers were the nephews, George and Harry Newton, Robert Canfield and Arthur Fisher. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

SPARTA INVENTOR GETS PATENTS ON DEVICES FOR AUTO

Joseph Perron Makes New Traffic Signal and Oil Proof Spark Plug

SPARTA, Wis.—Joseph Perron of this city has received notice from the patent office at Washington of the granting of patents to him on two devices for use in the automobile industry. The patent covers a device for a traffic signal to be placed on the rear of automobiles, that is entirely different from any signal now in use. It not only shows the usual stop sign when the brake or clutch is operated but it has arms that rise and point to the right or left as the driver wishes to indicate the direction in which he is about to turn his car. The moving of a little lever on the steering wheel or instrument board is all that is necessary to operate the signal. The new device is operated by compressed air directly from the engine, so that unless the engine is killed, the signal is sure. Mr. Perron is also the inventor of the oil proof spark plug for gasoline engines.

The official test of the city's new fire truck has been made in the presence of C. E. Hanser, representative of the Wisconsin inspection bureau.

About sixty teachers from Monroe county were in attendance at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Teachers' association held in Milwaukee last week. Supervising teachers, Miss Ollie Swanson and Miss Catherine Betthausen of Sparta, besides a number of Cashton, Norwalk, Kendall, Tomah and the Sparta schools were present at the meeting, and Warrens, Melvins, Valley Junction, Wyville and Leon sent representatives.

This is the first meeting of the association where teachers of the rural schools took part. Heretofore, the membership has been confined to the high school and graded school teachers, and a much larger enrollment was thus received, this year.

CAR SHORTAGE NOW LOOSENING UP SAYS MARKET DEPARTMENT

Supplies of Cars in Potato Districts Sufficient to Meet Market Demands

MADISON, Wis.—The car shortage which has hampered Wisconsin producers in shipping their products to market during the past two months, is loosening up somewhat at the present time, the state department of markets reports.

In the potato districts the supplies of cars are sufficient to meet the market demands, according to the department. Stock raisers are still complaining, however, about the shortage which is holding back their shipments in some sections.

Eastern lines are said to be placing more of their empties on the western lines with the result that Wisconsin has had its supplies increased. The recent order of the railroad commission directing railroad companies to repair their rolling stock in the state is also said to be aiding in the relief of the shortage.

Potato shippers within the next few days will be compelled to commence shipment of all of their stocks to market in heated cars because of the approach of freezing weather. This will probably increase the market price of potatoes due to the increased shipping costs, the department of markets says.

You can direct the payment of annual incomes, and the payment of extra sums under certain circumstances.

The Latest Ford Idea

THERE are indications that Henry Ford is thinking about becoming a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Ford is not talking about becoming president, but he is doing a great many things which such a man as he might naturally do had he the presidency in mind. And contemporaneously with the things Mr. Ford is doing there is a good deal of talk about the country concerning the possibility of his candidacy.

When Ford has a business deal on he goes at it in a systematic way. He informs himself how the job can best be done. Before he risks a dollar he knows all about it—markets, costs, facilities, etc.

Thomas Edison has devised a plan which, he believes, will bring industrial America that economic relief for which unions are fighting and politicians striving without sufficiently definite results. He has submitted the plan to Roger W. Babson, the great business expert. Mr. Babson may not have reached a decision upon the merits of the plan, but he has announced that it is important and deserves serious consideration.

At another time we will discuss Mr. Edison's plan. But today our interest in it lies in the fact that Mr. Edison devised the plan at the request of Henry Ford.

If Henry Ford was thinking of the presidency, wouldn't he do just that—study the country's greatest problems and seek some practical solution which he could make the major issue in his campaign?

Rumors come from radical camps that Henry Ford's hand was in some of the election turnovers which struck the republican party in many states. In some places the question is raised as to how some candidates and organizations secured the money which they legitimately used in their campaigns. There is a feeling that somewhere there is a powerful unknown backer of the liberal movement.

Ford went into the coal mines, down 3,000 feet. When he came out he said it was no place for men to work. It is significant that shortly thereafter he bought what is known as a "strip-mine." This is surface coal, washed out by hydraulic power. Men do not have to dig in the bowels of the earth to get it. This coal dredging property contains 180,000,000 tons of coal.

Mr. Ford adds that the coal in deep mines should be converted to power in the mine and its by-product manufactured at the mine. This is one step further than the nearest previous suggestion, which was to take the coal out of the mines and convert it into power at the surface. The thing is tremendously big, but looks somewhere between difficult and impossible. Yet it is one of the big public questions which Ford, looking toward the presidency, might study.

Ford has committed himself on such questions as prohibition, finance, distribution and transportation. He is consulting with experts in many places. Some of his projects seem as fanciful as the expedition which he sent to France to "take the boys out of the trenches." In that Mr. Ford was out of his realm, but when it comes to industry he is at home. We know that civilization is just beginning to use nature's resources. Ford's suggestion that rainfall be converted into power sounds fantastic enough yet the radiophone would have been called an absurdity ten years ago.

Henry Ford is 69 years old, but seems fit and active. He has raised racial questions that are not good for a country which is and must remain a composite of many races. In this he was inspired by a business quarrel. The incident raises a broad question as to his qualifications for the presidency, a question bigger than that created by his alleged illiteracy. Whether it would bring him more support than it cost him is a purely political question. He presents the anomaly of a non-union man with considerable union support. He is the country's leading disciple of large output and low prices. He is an example of the untutored man given to study and unafraid to consult scholars. Were he injected into the political situation as a candidate for the presidency, his would be the most talked of and entertaining political enterprise of the century.

Profit in Music

MUSIC pays! Again the Music Study Club is about its yearly business of offering us a bit of the best music attainable in America at a nominal price. They brought us the Russian Ballet, Bauer and Casals and the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. It seems the part of wisdom to trust their statement that Thibaud will stir us and leave us pleasant memories.

But it takes a materialist to point out that there is a profit other than that of pure pleasure which accrues to La Crosse through the Music Study Club course. About a week ago the Musical America, a magazine of wide national and foreign circulation, printed below a picture of Madame Melius the statement that she was to appear in La Crosse, Wisconsin. The day after the Thibaud concert the local correspondent of the Musical Courier will send to that magazine an account of the appearance of that artist in La Crosse. The fact will through this channel gain international publicity.

It pays! Every bit of creditable publicity the name of La Crosse gets away from home increases our city's importance and makes our goods more saleable. We're getting the best kind of free advertising. It pays to encourage the advertisers!

Different

H. G. WELLS, surrendering to Gloom by degrees, fears that civilization is tottering. The only way to save the world, as he sees it, is to wipe out the war debts, thus saving civilization from bleeding to death under the creditors' knife. This smells like a new version of the propaganda to induce America to forgive debts owed to us by Europe. If Wells is right, the quickest way for Europe to save itself would be to cancel its internal indebtedness—the money owed by the governments to their people. "That's different."

Chinese

CHINESE scholars claim that their ancestors once flew through the air and talked over enormous distances (airplanes and radio?) China says mankind climbs upward 15,000 years, then down 15,000 to barbarism, back up, back down, so on forever. A quaint theory, especially interesting these days when Caucasian brains fear we have built our civilization on quicksands.

Prostrate Roses

BY RUBY DOUGLAS

"I don't see why such a lovely thing as a rose should be called a prostrate rose," declared Hope Saunders as she stood at the foot of a terrace that was a veritable carpet of prostrate roses in pink and red and white.

"And why not?" asked her companion. "Do they not make a lovely hillside?"

Hope nodded. "Y—es," she admitted. "But it seems all wrong for them to lie so humbly on the ground when they have such a wonderful beauty."

The other girl did not reply. She was absorbing the loveliness of the bank ahead of them.

"Why—folks might walk on them by night—tread them down under foot," continued Hope. "They should be standing erect, flaunting their beauty in the eyes of every one and defying any passerby to trample them down."

"Oh, but so that's your idea of what beauty should do," Hope. "I wonder if you are right or wrong?"

"Right," of course," interrupted Hope, quickly.

"Maybe. But it seems to me that these prostrate roses are performing a wonderful mission by means of their beauty and humbleness of position. They are making an otherwise unattractive bank of earth most lovely. They are climbing about so gayly and happily that they invite the attention of every one to this homely hillside. Is that not a kindness? Is it not a thing that makes them lovable, Hope?"

Hope turned to walk on, but did not answer her companion's query. She herself was very lovely to look at. But she was of the consciously beautiful type that asserted itself wherever it went. Perhaps she knew that she had opened up this very line of thought for her companion to pursue, as an example, subtle as it might be, for her own absorption.

After the two had walked on for some distance Hope broke the silence.

"Helen, do you think that I am disagreeable?"

"No," said Helen, simply, but without conviction.

"Tell me—do you?"

Helen looked at her. "No—not exactly, dear. But you are very haughty. You are selfish. You are so sure of your own beauty that you think you do not need to be sweet and kind."

Hope gasped. "Am I?" she asked. "Am I, truly?"

Helen nodded. "You are, Hope. And yet, I feel that you have a better self hidden beneath this selfish exterior."

Again they walked on. Hope was too taken back to pry further into the opinion her best friend had of her qualities.

When she reached home and Helen had walked on, she went to her room. She threw herself on the couch that looked out into the lovely garden belonging to her father. It was there, last night, that she had told Bob Warner that she was tired of being neglected at dances and had quarreled with him.

Now, as she thought it over, he had done anything but neglect her. He had danced with some plain cousins who were visiting his mother and had showed them, because they were strangers and none too attractive, all the attention that he thought he should show them.

And Hope had been piqued because he had been accustomed to asking her for nearly every dance. She had had plenty of partners, but she wanted him also.

"Was I selfish?" she asked herself. "Does my beauty—which is no accomplishment of my own, no credit to me—make me this way? Might I not have been kind, instead, to Bob's cousins? Might I not have taken them with me, so that the men who always surround me at dances would have asked them, too, to dance?"

She thought of the beautiful roses clambering over the homely, unattractive bank, positively dragging the attention of all who passed to the spot. Might she, perhaps, have tried to stimulate their efforts, by being kind to the less lovely girls who were strangers?

Instead, she had been unkind, jealous, selfish.

She went to the telephone beside her bed. When she found Bob on the wire she could hear the loveliness of his tone.

"Will you—please come up to see me tonight, Bob?" she asked.

His astonishment at her call, his added amazement at the humble pleading in her tone, made it almost impossible for him to believe it was Hope.

Nevertheless, he found her in the garden by the fountain that night. She was lovely in white, in the moonlight. At once he began to tell her so, inspired by the picture she made.

"Don't—Bob. You know I am not

"But, Hope—"

"No, don't. I am going to tell you all the things I have been thinking since last night, when I quarreled with you and sent you away. Helen really brought me to my senses and I'll tell you how."

She told him of the roses and of what Helen had said. She explained her own reaction, and it was not long before she was in tears on the stone bench at his side while he was telling her enough to make her vain for life and undo all the good of the day's introspection.

"You tell me this because I am crying. You do not mean it—but," she sobbed, unashamed of the tears that marred her beauty, "you will mean them, some day. I shall try to be like those roses. I shall try to use my beauty to do good—if you will only love me again, Bob."

There was no use trying to hear what Bob replied, for it was lost in the murmur of golden hair that tumbled about her ears.

CORN PRICES JUMP SEVENTEEN CENTS WITHIN 60 DAYS

Advance Not Speculative; Market Back on Supply and Demand Basis, Says Trader

CHICAGO, Ill.—Corn marketing conditions unprecedented at any time in the last six years, are stirring up the liveliest sort of interest among grain traders here. The outstanding feature attracting attention is that within about sixty days the value of corn has soared seventeen cents a bushel at a time when the bulk of the crop is still in producers' hands. What this situation means to the farming community and to the business relations of the country at large was authoritatively discussed in a statement issued Thursday by B. W. Snow of Bartlett-Frazier company, former assistant secretary of agriculture at Washington. Mr. Snow said: "The advance in corn is not speculative in character, but is the result of growing appreciation in market centers of the country situation. The crop is some 300,000,000 bushels short of last year and the stocks of old corn carried over are about 100,000,000 bushels smaller than a year ago so the available supply for the coming year is fully 400,000,000 bushels smaller than was the case the past year. The surplus of corn accumulated as a result of war urging and post-war prices has been used up and we are again on a basis of current supply and demand."

VAUDEVILLE BILL AT THE RIVOLI IS FINE ATTRACTION

Patrons of the Rivoli who visit that play house during the last half of the week are assured of a good all around show, both as to vaudeville and the motion picture feature.

The opening act of the vaudeville bill is a dancing and singing novelty offered by Mickey, Francis and Margie. Mickey and Francis are a pair of nimble-footed young men who execute a series of intricate and amazing dance steps. Margie, a charming girl with several pleasing songs, also does a bit of dancing herself.

Dorothy Leoda and Sister present an offering that is a little out of the ordinary, but none the less acceptable. Dorothy has a repertoire of catchy songs, while her sister presides at the piano. A saxophone duo is their final number.

"Just For Fun" is the title of the act put on by Bradley and Stevens, and it amounts to just that. The pair have a line of nonsensical humor that pleased the Wednesday night audience to such an extent that it threatened to stop the show.

The Unusual Duo offer a sensational roller skating act. They perform a series of unusual and difficult feats on the rolling shoes, though they are somewhat hampered by the small size of the stage at the Rivoli.

To Give the Hair a Naturally Wavy Effect

Ever since the virtues of the silmerine hair-curling method first became known in this country, druggists here have been having a really extraordinary demand for liquid silmerine. Its effectiveness, its convenience and its entire harmlessness doubtless have been responsible for its increasing use among well groomed women.

One need only apply a little of the liquid with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair and the tresses will have a beautiful wavy and glossy appearance which bears no marks of artificiality. The best way to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. There is no discoloration, no stickiness, streaks or other unpleasant features. Liquid silmerine is fine for bobbed as well as long hair, also as an aid in shaping "ear muffs" and in keeping them in place over the ears.

RUB RHEUMATIC, ACHING JOINTS AND STOP PAIN

St. Jacobs Oil stops any pain, and rheumatism is pain only. Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil right into your sore, stiff, aching joints, and relief comes instantly. St. Jacobs Oil is a harmless rheumatism hummer, which never disappoints, and cannot burn the skin.

Linger up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. St. Jacobs Oil is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

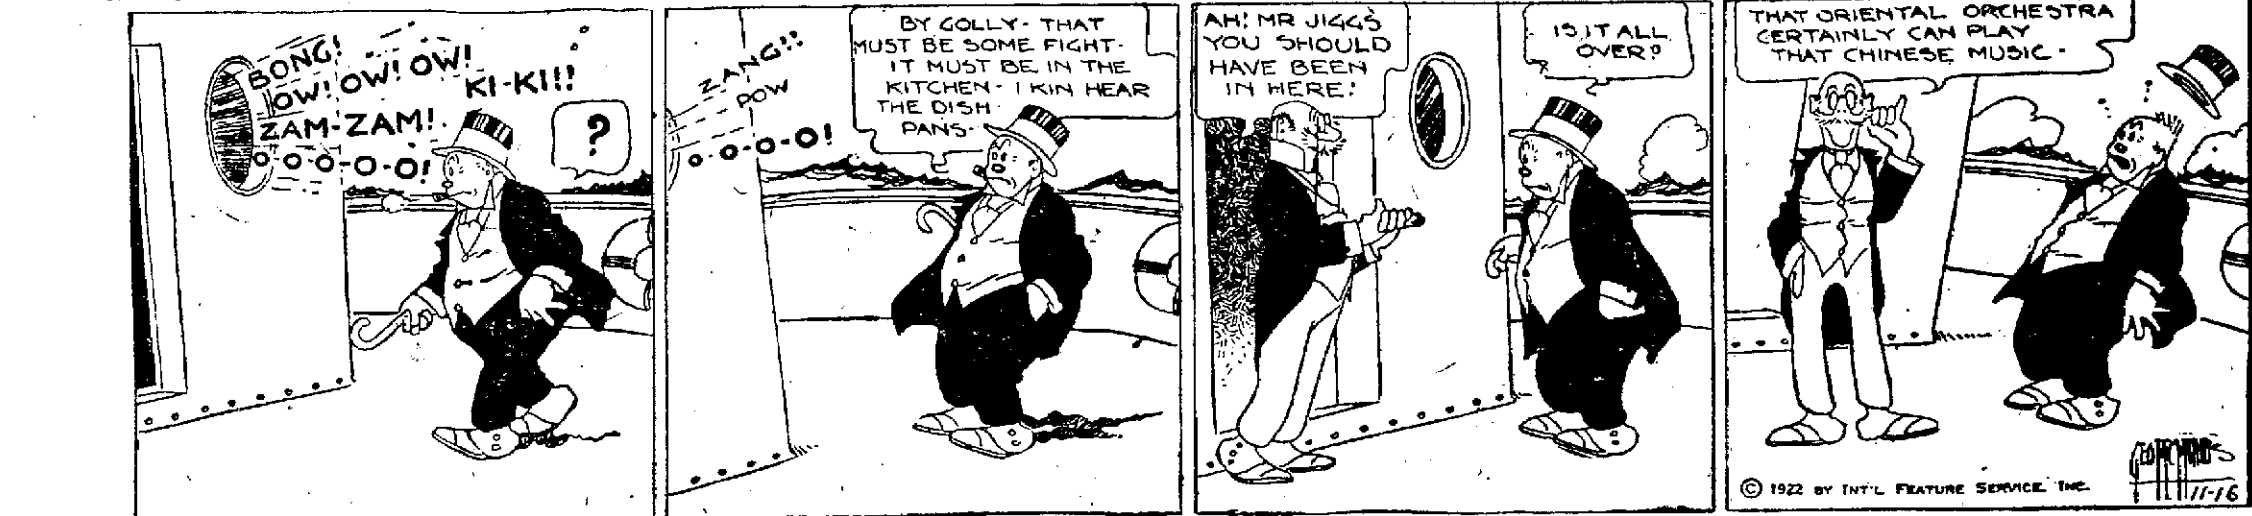

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

BRINGING UP FATHER

WONDER RECORD OF WISCONSIN TOLD BY GOVERNOR BLAINE TO NEW ORLEANS BUSINESS MEN

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Governor J. J. Blaine, Wisconsin's chief executive, made the first of his sales talk before the Association of Commerce here Thursday noon, carrying to the south the story of agricultural and industrial development in his state that has made necessary the seeking of new markets.

Coming as the emissary of 35 Wisconsin agricultural and commercial organizations, the governor made a plea for co-operation between his state at the head of the Mississippi valley and the states down at the gate of the valley.

He said that he had come to discuss the practical interests of a state, rather than raminate on the tariff, the Volstead act, or the Darwinian theory.

Boosts Products Up

Governor Blaine told of the Wisconsin Products exposition to be held at Milwaukee in December, under the combined direction of agricultural and industrial interests of his state. This co-operative enterprise, he explained, is intended to impress the country with the quality products of Wisconsin, and to create new markets for these products.

"I am sent as an emissary to tell the south what state-wide co-operation can do, our citizens feeling that in the success of intensive state development is a prosperity that will be even greater to us if you, adapting it to your own purposes, care to benefit by our experience," the Wisconsin executive said, opening his remarks about the activities of his state.

"So deeply impressed is the state of Wisconsin with the successes that have come from state co-operation with both farm and city producers that it has created a department of markets, the business of which is to see that every purchaser in or outside of the state of Wisconsin gets his dollar's worth in quality when buying farm products," Governor Blaine added. He then set out to detail Wisconsin's attainments.

Dairy Products Outvalue Metals

"I wonder how many realize that Wisconsin produced in dairy products in one year $30,000,000 more than the total value of the iron ore products in the United States," the governor asked. "Michigan, Montana and Utah are famous for their copper mines," he continued, "but in a single year Wisconsin farmers got more for their dairy products than all the copper mines of those three states."

"In one year, all the gold produced in the United States if offered in payment for the cheese products alone of Wisconsin, would be short $8,000,000 of the purchase price. Why," he said, "if Wisconsin's cheese produced in one year were put in cellophane form and sliced were cut one inch thick, the number of cheese wheels so made would equal the total number of automobile wheels made in the United States from the beginning of the automobile industry."

"Our far western states are happy in the possession of silver mines, yet son, confident of the result. The manufacturers of Wisconsin through their Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, have endeavored by the state and now about to adopt a state brand, produced butter in equal cash marketable quantities to all the silver mined in the United States."

Speaking of the proposed Great Lakes to the Gulf deep waterway, Governor Blaine said that Wisconsin was "intensely interested in the project." He declared that he confidently looked for the day when "an immense and navigable water transportation system will stretch all the way from the Atlantic to the Mississippi," saying that he believed the advent of that day would open new trade possibilities and a broader market for the entire middle west.

"We have another waterway problem in which we are intensely interested," Governor Blaine continued. "This project is from the lakes to the St. Lawrence, in which manufacturers, farm producers and the consumers of Wisconsin are interested, for everything that I have told relative to the superiority of Wisconsin agricultural products is duplicated in the most exact sense in the magnificent output of our industrial plants."

"Beats the World"

"Whether it be the fabrics that clothe the people of the south, or the steam shovels that dug the Panama canal, or the paper upon which checks are printed, or the aluminum kettle on your kitchen range, or the tractor, plow and harrow, or the internal combustion engine, Wisconsin manufactured products invite world comparison, through their Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, have intensively spread the doctrine of quality throughout its vast membership."

"Wisconsin's undertakings and activities as a social organization have been applied to manufacturing, and the state comes in close contact with its manufacturers through the workmen's compensation act, administered by our industrial commission. "The leaders of farm movements and city movements in Wisconsin have combined to impress upon the citizens of the state, as well as of the nation, those things of which I have spoken. This state-wide marketing co-operative movement has culminated in a great state-wide Wisconsin Products exposition, to be held for the first time in Milwaukee next month. There will be held for the first time in the United States a great mid-winter fair and exposition at which will be displayed the working exhibits of industry and agriculture, the exhibits confined to "made or grown in Wisconsin" products."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Money Back If "Gets-It" Fails

Nothing is so utterly needless as the suffering from aching, painful corns.

It is as easy to peel off a corn as to skin a banana. Touch it with "Gets-It" and the trick is done. For hard corns, soft corns, any corn—or callus. All pain stops instantly and the corn proceeds to loosen and soon can be lifted right off.

Your money cheerfully refunded if it fails. But it never fails. Costs but a trifle. B. Lawrence & Co., Mfrs., Chicago. Sold in La Crosse by C. L. Lien and The Rexall Store.

TOO MUCH MEAT HURTS KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

COFFEE GROWERS IN HAITI LOOKING FOR BUMPER CROP

1922 Yield Will be Largest Exported in History of the Island

ST. MARC, Haiti.—There are indications in Haiti here that the coffee crop which is now being picked and shipped will be the largest exported from Haiti in all her history. St.
Marc is the center of the coffee growing country, and already the roads and trails are pouring in a flood of the aromatic berries that find such high favor in western Europe. Since the export tax on coffee produces a little more than one-third of the government's entire revenue, and the coffee exports average two-thirds of all Haiti's export trade, the importance of this record breaking crop can be appreciated.

At the peak of the French regime in Haiti a crop of 74,000,000 pounds was exported to Europe in 1791.
Thirty years later it had dwindled to 20,000,000 pounds as a result of neglect and the incessant civil wars following Haiti's independence in 1803.
Under Haitian rule it finally climbed in 1880 to 75,000,000 pounds, but the production was again at low ebb when the United States intervened in 1915. Three years later, when American troops had restored order in the island, it reached a total of 80,000,000 pounds, of $16,500,000 declared value, and that year the crop paid 40 per cent of Haiti's entire revenue.

The present crop, however, is expected to exceed all previous French, Haitian and American occupation figures, and the average price to the peasant will be nine cents a pound. Practically all of the coffee goes to Havre for distribution through France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Austria, where it is used in small lots as a grading coffee.

It is worthy of note that practically not a dollar of the millions that the new crop will bring to Haiti will go into the pocket of a single American, for the coffee industry in Haiti is wholly in the hands of Haitians, a few French, and a small number of Americans.

The crop is not a single cultivated plantation in Haiti. The berries grow semi-wild from the old French days, requiring no irrigation and receiving practically no care. Coffee experts hold that through the indolence and ignorance of the peasants, fully one-half of the average crop is not picked. With attention to shading and pruning, and with reasonable diligence, the coming bumper crop could certainly be quadrupled, they aver.
The coming revision of the Haitian tariff that will materially reduce or eliminate the present export tax of three cents per pound, will materially increase the profits of the peasant, and with the extension of the roads and trails, made possible by the Haitian loan, coffee prospects are considered very good indeed.

While Haitian coffee has not as yet gained a foothold in the United States, its distinctive aroma and strength have outstripped all competition in western Europe.

USE OF CAMELS IN WARFARE

In the country where camels live they have been used in battle from very remote times.

In the Egyptian campaign, Napoleon decided in 1807 to create a regiment mounted on dromedaries to consist of two squadrons of 4 companies each. The soldiers were to be selected from the infantry, to wear distinctive uniforms, and to be armed with the weapons of the infantry, plus a very long lance. The dromedaries were to be mounted on dromedaries of superior speed and endurance. The dromedaries seem to have been easy to train, and no difficulty was incurred in accompanying them to the dunes and buzle.

The corps reached a strength of about six hundred men and appeared to have been a valuable military force.
The usual day's march was about seventy-two miles, and one case is cited of 500 miles in eight days.

The dromedary corps remained in existence about two and a half years.
Subsequently similar troops were raised in Algeria, and also in India.
The latter force was disbanded in 1852, as it was considered too expensive.—Galesville Republican.

HIS SIGNS SELL HIS GOODS

All New England towns have their "characters" and Nantucket has more than its share. Eliza Gardner, an elderly person with fancy whiskers, sits day after day in his "Prunella Office" in front of his humble home on the island to serve those who are attracted to his place. At first glance you would not think he could do much business but in his quiet way he handles a good deal of material.
His stock is varied and besides pencils consists of most anything that he thinks somebody will take a fancy to. Old brassware, crockery, soft drinks and an old print or two are displayed. His "office" is entirely on the sidewalk and consists of a rude stand liberally plastered with numerous signs which attract attention and bring patrons to his place. His temper was quite upset not long ago when someone came along and bought the old chair from under him. He had been sitting on it a long while and did not want to sell it. Besides that he was put to the trouble of getting another chair.

When prohibition agents ask a bartender what he's got to drink, a soft answer turneth away suspicion.

Paris Delves Into Past For Evening Gowns

The night will be glad for its thousand eyes this winter when the picturesque evening gowns Paris is sending over are revealed in all their glory.

The loveliest styles of former days have all been revived and one need consider only becomingness when selecting.

Instead of the all-black costume, so favored last year, we are in for a season of gay colors and daring combinations. Straight lines have given way to draperies and graceful points.

One of the most beautiful of evening wraps is shown above. It is of heavy silver brocade heavily patterned with beads.

From Czechoslovakia comes the unique bodice and fan, formed from a silken scarf. This is a style Paris is favoring at the present time, and it promises to become one of the most popular fads of the season.

Sloan's Liniment—Kills Pain!

Nagging pains cease
when congestion is relieved

Remember: most of the pain and inflammation of rheumatism comes from congestion. Start the congested blood flowing freely and even chronic, nagging pains cease. Sloan's does just this—it penetrates without rubbing—straight to the congested spot. It warms up, stimulates the circulation. It stops pain, brings quick, comforting relief. Many uses—all in one 35c bottle.

Keep Sloan's handy. It allays pain of aching muscles. Relaxes and eases tired, aching backs. Ends neuralgia.
Holds cold in check. Relieves all causes of congestion.

NEW YORK.—Willie Hoppe, former champion, played with his old-time cunning and skill at the Pennsylvania hotel Tuesday night, and easily defeated Edouard Horemans, the Belgian champion, 500 to 17.

The match was the third one in the international tournament for the world's championship and the most decisive thus far.

Hoppe's longest run was 134, while Horemans' best single effort was 70. The former champ's average was 55.5 and that of his European opponent 19.6.

The match required but nine innings, the shortest this far in the tournament. Like Jack Schaefer, the present champion, Hoppe got away to a bad start. A lightning fast table bothered him. It was not until the fifth inning that he got under way. It was then that he made his long run. Horemans won the bank.

Score by innings:
Hoppe—16 25 40 1 124 99 0 97 88
Horemans—0 5 62 5 0 10 70 25 0

Roger Conti displayed excellent control, once he had gauged the speed of the table to beat Walter Cochran, 500 to 378 on Tuesday. His close ball to ball billiards was excellent. At the end he made a nerve finish for Cochran had established a slight lead.

All Conti's compilations were closely collected caroms on the short rail. The Frenchman rarely employed the massé, but when he did so was uniformly successful. A brilliant run of 105 on his thirteenth turn at the table, all counted near the foot, sent Conti to the lead at 285 to 81.

His big run was terminated by a miss on a short single cushion carom.

BARTENDER THROWS
PITCHER OF MOON
INTO SALOON SINK

WINONA.—When Winona police raided the Frederick hotel bar, 205 East Third street, during Wednesday night, they seized a quart pitcher, believed to contain moonshine liquor, and dashed it into a tank of running water, the bar according to Chief H. C. Rickson.

Officers Albert Winkels and Julius Brink, who made the raid, rescued the pitcher from the tank before the contents of the two had entirely mingled. Rickson said he poured the liquid into a milk bottle, and brought it to the station as evidence.

The officers searched the barroom and other parts of the main floor of the hotel. Chief Rickson said, but found no additional liquor. In an automobile in a yard at the rear of the hotel, however, the raiders discovered a pint bottle of moonshine liquor and an empty gallon jug, it was known.

Rochester was arrested on a warrant charging commission of a nuisance by possession for sale of liquor. Chief Rickson said he was being held at the station pending provision of $500 bail to guarantee his appearance in municipal court tomorrow, police added.

Chief Rickson declared that liquor is brought to the hotel yard in an automobile, left near the barn, and obtained by the bartender in quantities of a pitcher-full at a time as needed to meet the demands of trade. The raid was made with a search warrant applying to the main floor of the building and to the lot, police said.

HUPMOBILES ARE TAKEN DOWN TWO
BY IDEAL WET WASH

Things are developing into a tough struggle in the commercial bowling league. The league leaders, Hupmobiles, although not seriously endangered of having the lead taken away from them for awhile, lost two games to the Ideal Wet Washers Wednesday night.

But in the first division there is a battle on for supremacy. The Tribune firmly established itself in second place by virtue of a sweeping victory over the W. M. L. & P. And the Gateway, previously tied with the Tribune, slid into fourth place when they were only able to win two from the Eagles while the Stavrum & Fraser quintet mopped up with the Mariettes in three games.

Schneeberger was the star with the Tag Hurts in their three-game victory over the Tri-States, rolling 205, 213 and 211 for a total of 629. The Matthews Company won two out of three from the Moose.

MADISON CENTRAL HIGH GRIDDERS
WHO MEET LA CROSSE HERE SATURDAY

This is the squad of huskies which meets the Red and Black at Normal field Saturday afternoon in what is expected to be one of the hardest games of the season for the local eleven. La Crosse has not been put to a severe test as yet this season and Coach Keegan is preceding all of his remarks about further activities of the Red and Black with the statement, "If Madison is beaten here Saturday." A special team of Madison Central rooters will accompany the team to this city, leaving Madison at 6:30 Saturday morning, and returning about 10:30 on the same day. Kivly rooting both from the Madison and La Crosse sections is looked for. La Crosse is doped the winner but only after a hard game, is the general opinion.

RICHARDS LEAVES WITH THIRTY MEN TO BATTLE YOST

Long and Hard Practice Wednesday Shows Improvement in Offensive and Defensive

MADISON, Wis.—With his entire squad of thirty Wisconsin regulars, Coach John R. Richards leaves Thursday afternoon to lead the Badgers into Michigan, where they will meet the Wolverines Saturday in an against-odds battle. The team will lay over at Jackson, Mich., tomorrow for a workout before proceeding to Ann Arbor.

After a long hard practice last night in which the varsity showed a decided improvement in both offensive and defensive play, the team settled back, its training for the Michigan contest practice complete. Every man on the squad is in good condition, the trainers announced.

Wisconsin is worrying over a method to stop the famed Kipke, Uteritz, Cappel, House of Michigan. The coaches have spent the greater part of the past two weeks' training for the onslaught that is expected on Saturday.

Coach Richards has a new offense that will be opened against the Wolverines for the first time.

STAGG DEVELOPING PAIR OF ENDS TO REPLACE CRIPPLES

Chicago Has Yet to Meet Illini and Wisconsin in Two Hard Games

CHICAGO, Ill.—Development of two ends to replace Lampe and Dickson, both crippled in the game with Ohio State last Saturday, is the chief concern this week of Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago in preparing for what he regards as the two hardest conference games on the Maroon schedule—the Illinois battle next Saturday, and the tussle with Wisconsin a week later.

Strohmeier, one of the best ends in the Big Ten, will be retained at quarterback if possible, Stagg said. However Strohmeier may take one of the wing positions against Illinois next Saturday unless the squad of substitutes provides two good ends in the next day or two.

Barnes, secured to have the edge on his rival for an end position, Wilcox and Luggan are among the other possibilities.

War Against the Umbrella
Tradition has it that the first umbrella was carried in the streets of London, and now in the same city there is a violent agitation against the umbrella. On a rainy day, which is quite the usual thing in London, the forest of umbrellas makes the thoroughfares almost impassable and quite a formidable agitation has taken shape with the hope of having the umbrella declared a nuisance.

"LORNA DOONE" AT RIVOLI

"Speed, pep and a thrill" is the demand of the American amusement seeker, according to motion picture producers who claim that the modern mania for "something with a kick in it" is responsible for the growing number of melodramatic films which are on the market.

Even lovelier than "Broken-Nose" or "Treasure Island" is Tourneur's last production of "Lorna Doone." From R. D. Blackmore's beautiful English romance he has evolved a picture that ranks with any great spectacular play of the year.

Both story and picture are replete with romance and action. In the film the incidents, when visualized, become even more enthralling. When John Ridd goes over the falls of the Bagworthy river through swirling, roaring waters into the whirlpool below to save the lovely "Lorna" from a fate worse than death, there is breathless suspense as he fights his way out of the water. Follows one of the greatest hand-to-hand fights ever screened; sumptuous scenes from the London court; the burning of the outlaw's village and the shooting of Lorna as she stands at the altar. Action never flags.

Madge Bellamy, remembered for her splendid work in "Hail the Woman," plays the title role with the emotional ability and spontaneous charm that already have endeared her to the public. Mr. Rogers has the part of the bereaved "John Ridd," while Frank Keenan has created one of the finest characterizations of his career in "Sir Lancelot Doone."

"Lorna Doone" plays the balance of the week at the Rivoli. Four acts of vaudeville are also on the program.

VALENTINO AND BEYERSTEDT SCORE BIG AT THE STRAND
A record crowd packed the Strand last night to see Valentino in "The Young Rajah" and to hear the Beyerstedts. The same program is on again tonight.

Rodolph Valentino portrays two Hindu deities of the various incarnations of Krishna in this new Paramount picture. The portrayals occur in a number of fantastic vision scenes which are necessary to establish certain characteristics of the hero. Anand, who is supposedly a descendant of Krishna, the mortal brother of Krishna, the seventh incarnation of Krishna, the Hindu god of Love. The other deity portrayed by Valentino is Vishnu.

The correct portrayal of these Hindu mythological figures required an immense amount of study and research work. Mr. Valentino's costumes for these roles were designed by Winifred Hapgood, as were all his other changes in the picture.

"LIGHTS OF DESERT,"—MAJESTIC

Flashing her smiles from the screen, Shirley Mason will greet local picture fans today at the Majestic Theater in her latest production, "Lights of the Desert." The story by Gladys E. Johnson is well filled with tense moments and dramatic situations of powerful appeal, as well as touches in the lighter vein. In other words, it would appear to be an ideal photoplay for Miss Mason; and this, indeed, is how it is described by many reviewers in other towns.

An excellent cast has been chosen to support the star. Her leading man is Allan Forrest, a very capable young actor.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry
For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norwegian spruce, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CASINO TODAY
Broken-Nose Murphy, who appears in support of Viola Dana, the Metro star, in her most recent picture, "They Like 'Em Rough," has the Christian name of Stephen, but he prefers to be known as Broken-Nose just as Mr. Montona prefers to be known as Bull and Brodwick Turner as Smoke.

"Nicknames are more appropriate than any baptismal names," says Mr. Murphy. "They fit the character or most prominent characteristic of a person. And, since my broken nose is my most prominent characteristic, I want to be billed as Broken-Nose rather than as Stephen."

"They Like 'Em Rough" to be seen tonight at the Casino Theater, is Miss Dana's latest Metro picture, a romance that steps lively from the time the heroine pays the first man she meets one hundred dollars to marry her.

WHITESIDE IN "THE HINDU"
Mr. Walker Whiteside will come to the La Crosse Theater Monday Nov. 20th in "The Hindu," a mystery melodrama of the Orient today, in which he triumphed last year in both Chicago and New York.

"A glamorous adventure filled with surprises and thrills," is the way the New York Evening World described

"The Hindu," which is reported to be the only mystery play today that does not depend upon a murder. The story is said to be a straight-away tale of mystery and villainy; accidental love and oriental passion; theft and violence; all told within the confines of a gorgeous palace.

Mr. Whiteside's magnificent record as an actor and a producer, will recall his notable performances of Hamlet and Richard III, and his nationwide popularity in successes such as "The Melting Pot," "The Typhoon," "Mr. Wu," "The Little Brother," and "The Master of Ballantrae." For his engagement here he will have in his support Miss Sydney Shields, the distinguished emotional actress. The cast will also include Harold Vosburgh, Grace Lynn, Milton McClintock, Elwyn Eaton, Harold de Becker, Santos Robert, Grant Sherman, M. de Silva and S. Pazama.

NEW YORK—President Harding, in a letter to Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late Theodore Roosevelt, admitted that there had been a shift in public opinion regarding prohibition and predicted the question would not be taken out of politics within this generation.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Increased commission buying and further broadening of general speculative interest gave a decided lift to wheat prices Thursday morning. The early trading was with eastern connections led in the purchasing of December and May deliveries. Initial quotations here which were based on a report that the December $1.19, to $1.20 and May $1.16, to $1.17, were followed by a sharp upward all around.

General selling on wheat took place Thursday after and deliveries of grain except December wheat had reached a new high price for the season. The selling was based on an opinion which became prevalent that after three days advance some setback was to be expected. The close was unsettled at 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 points. Railroad stocks also made a good showing with Union Pacific, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico gaining two points each. Call money opened at five per cent.

CIRCULATE PETITION ASKING A REDUCTION IN FARMERS' TAXES

Non-Partisan League Backs Legislative Program of Tax Reform Conference

PROTEST HIGHWAY PRIVILEGE TAX AND LEVY ON GASOLINE

Ask Graduated Tax on Automobiles Based on Valuation

MADISON, Wis.—Petitions asking a reduction in farm taxes by enactment by the legislature of proposals submitted to the farmers' conference on tax reform held at Madison September 15, are being circulated throughout Wisconsin by the Non-Partisan League. C. C. Platt, manager of the organization, announced Thursday. The 134 members of the state-wide committee on taxation chosen by the September conference are circulating the papers.

These petitions protest against the first highway privilege tax, and against the gasoline tax now before county boards for approval with recommendation of their legislative committee. They ask for establishment of a graduated tax on automobiles based on valuation, for $1,500 exemption of improvements on small land holdings, repeal of the personal property offset to the income tax law, repeal of the secrecy clause to the income tax law, and enactment of a statute that will force the lands held for speculative purposes, into use.

Mr. Platt, in a statement accompanying the petitions, says that it is his expectation that any radical reduction of the total amount to be raised by taxation in the state can be made at this time on account of the needs of the highway department and the educational activities.

"The league movement is a movement for tax reduction for working farmers with comparatively small holdings," Mr. Platt declared. "These farmers find their high taxes, coupled with low prices for products, making their labor unremunerative and forcing many into bankruptcy. Farm taxes can readily be reduced by at least one-third and may be so reduced by shifting taxation from the shoulders of these least able to bear them to the shoulders of those best able to do so."

It is explained that Lieutenant Governor George F. Comings and C. B. Ballard, state treasury agent, have been appointed to name a small executive committee of farmers living around Madison, who will be able to attend committee hearings during the legislature and urge adoption of the Non-Partisan League tax program.

"The repeal of the excess profits tax, a measure denounced by the progressive platform as saving the big business interests of Wisconsin millions of dollars," Mr. Platt said in his statement. "Therefore, why should there not be at least some increase in income tax rates in order that there may be a corresponding decrease in real estate taxes, and yet, money enough raised to take care of highway needs. The league is not opposed to liberal expenditures for constructing and maintaining good roads."

"The league is opposed to the present system of taxation in Wisconsin under which the owner of a $5,000 farm pays five or six times as much in taxes as does the owner of $5,000 invested in stocks, bonds or mortgages. While property taxes yield $7 million dollars, and take nearly all the profit out of owning land, our income taxes yield only five or six million dollars."

"An increase of income taxes to $16,000,000 by raising rates on the higher incomes would together with the repeal of the secrecy clause of the income tax law, and the repeal of the personal property offset, give the state plenty of money to take care of any reasonable program for highway construction and maintenance."

Full Supply
"Do you think the country needs a new party?"
"No," replied Senator Sorensen. "If the old parties keep on modifying their platforms for a few more years, they'll offer all the political novelties anybody could reasonably desire."—Washington Evening Star.

How Your Wash Looks Under A Microscope

See What Saves—What Destroys

Don't blame the materials or the laundress for gray-looking clothes, frayed edges, thin spots and tiny holes in fabrics. If these things happen the chances are that your laundry soap is nearly as water glass or some other nasty "detergent." Most ordinary white and yellow laundry soaps contain much of it.

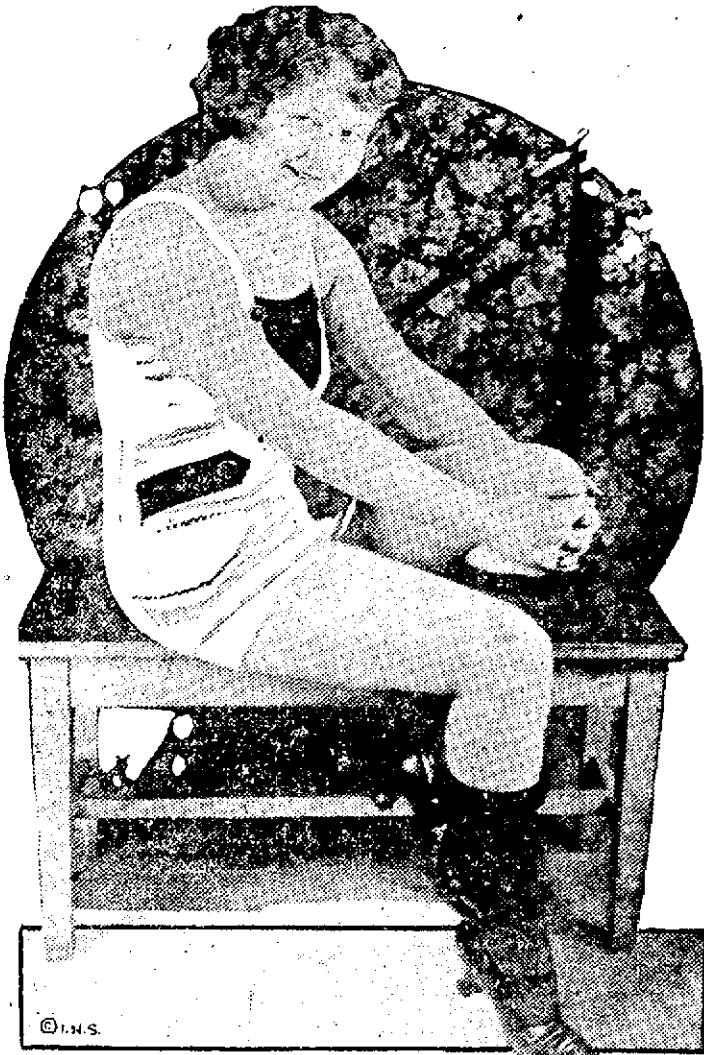

With a microscope you could probably see the fine, glittering particles of water glass that crystallize in the strands of the fabric when your clothes dry out. These cut the threads; usually the holes show up in the worn spots first. Other "fillers" simply rot the fabric.

Careful women are avoiding this nowadays by getting The Palmolive Co.'s large, greenish laundry bar that is called "no filler"—called GREEN ACRYL. To see the results, test it at least a month or two. You'll notice the very first trial that it does not reddish, roughen or burn your hands. But to note the big difference in the whiteness, softness and freshness of your clothes and in the quantity of soap you save, several trials are best. You can also avoid the boiling and destructive rubbing for the olive oil and turpentine take the dirt right out with a little soaking and restore the virgin whiteness of the fibers.

Fabric experts wash with olive oil soap because it imparts to the fibers the softness and evenness to the fibers. GREEN ACRYL is the most economical soap as well as the most delicious for being all soap it is all cleaning power and goes nearly twice as far as the ordinary.

Pay a cent or two more for GREEN ACRYL and save many dollars in clothes and many bars of soap.

O.K.D BY JUDGE

MRS. FAULKNER IN BATHING SUIT WHICH CAUSED THE TROUBLE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wives, don't let your husbands tell you what to wear or what not to wear.

They have no right to dictate to you, as least when it comes to clothes. This is the opinion of legal experts here who point to the precedent recently set in the case of Mrs. Doris Faulkner against her husband, David C. Faulkner.

Faulkner saw wife in a bathing suit at a cabaret style review. He had ordered her not to appear this way in public, so, it is charged, he tried to tear it from her.

The quarrel ended when the judge granted a decree of divorce to Mrs. Faulkner.

Which means, say legal authorities, that husbands cannot interfere with wife's attire.

St. Francis, and a valuable cargo of assorted merchandise, consigned to Milwaukee, went down with the ship. No lives were lost.

Charges that the boat was overloaded or at least improperly loaded are said to have been made to the inspectors in the federal building.

Abe Smith captain of the vessel and J. P. Calkins, chief engineer of the boat, were recalled before the board at an inquiry behind closed doors. Besides these officers, the mate M. J. Bonner, and the wheelman, Michael Green, were called to testify.

Captain Frank Van Patten, hull inspector, would make no statement today about discoveries but indicated that the investigation would be pushed to the limit.

SINKING OF LAKE STEAMER PROBED BY U. S. INSPECTOR

Investigates Charges that Boat Was Overloaded or Improperly Loaded

ORGANIZE STATE FARM-LABOR UNIT IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Representatives of Farm and Labor Organizations Called for Conference Nov. 28th

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Representatives of farmers and labor, and similar organizations will be invited to attend a meeting here on November 28, when efforts will be made to form a state unit of the farmer-labor party, it was announced Thursday.

Decision to call this conference was reached at a meeting of the local farmer-labor party here Wednesday night and was said to be part of a movement to form a new national party.

The farmer-labor party, organized first in Minnesota two years ago, has had several notable successes in electing candidates to office. Outstanding among these victories were the election November 7 of Dr. Henrik Shipstead to the United States senate from Minnesota, who defeated Senator Frank B. Kellogg, republican, by 80,000 votes, and of Rev. O. J. Krueger over Representative A. J. Volstead in the Seventh Minnesota congressional district. Rev. Krueger ran as an independent candidate but had the endorsement of the farmer-labor organization.

Wilkinson, internal revenue collector for the eastern district of Wisconsin at present, is president of the bank, which position he has held since its organization.

Public Debate

I have been informed that the sale of tickets for the Music Study class series of concerts, the first of which is to be given Friday evening, has not been as satisfactory as was expected. This is surely greatly to be regretted.

The efforts of the Music Study class to present a series of concerts worthy of generous support on the part of music lovers as well as the general public, have heretofore met with marked success. The artists were selected with good judgment, the programs presented met with hearty approval and the class was urged to continue its good work. The present series appeals to all who are interested in both instrumental and vocal music. Jacques Thibaud, a celebrated French violinist, gives the opening concert to be followed later by Mme. Luella Meis, a soprano, whom the critics speak of as a "second Patti." Judging by the results of the success in the selection of artists for the La Crosse public, in the past, I am sure that we may safely rely on the judgment of the class in making their selection of artists for this series and give them our wholehearted support.

I wonder if we fully appreciate what the presentation of such world renowned artists really means for our community. The concerts are not given for profit, but only for their inspirational and educational effect upon the community—and apart from these the fact that an enterprise of this character meets with great success is a matter of great importance to the city at large. Nothing, it seems to me, can add more to the good name of La Crosse, than to be known as a music loving and appreciating town. If any have failed to procure season tickets I hope they will see to it at once that they are procured. We must not fail to give the Music Study class our best encouragement and support at this time. HUNTER LOST IN WOODS FOUR DAYS FOUND WEDNESDAY

St. Paul Man Located by Woodsmen in Half-starved Condition

ELY, Minn.—Half starved and weakened by wandering in the woods since early Sunday, George Peterson of St. Paul, was found by a searching party of seventy-five men about 20 miles north of Camp Eight, which is thirty-five miles southeast of here, Wednesday.

Following clues discovered by experienced woodsman and trappers, Peterson's trail was traced from Camps Six, Seven and Nine. When found he was lying on the ground in an exhausted condition, having wandered in a complete circle after leaving Camp Seven.

Peterson declared he was down to his last match when he heard the voices of the searching party. He had kept himself alive by shooting small game and eating hard-tack in his pack.

It is estimated that $6,500,000 tons of major crops are hauled over highways annually.
